THE GOVERNOR'S VETO.

Governor Smith did a wise act when he vetoed the bill organizing the little village of Abnapee, in Kewaunee county, into a city. This little burg is situated on Lake Michigan, has a population of only about 1,300, and last fall cast only 244 votes. The idea that such a hamlet should become a city is absolutely ridiculous. The Governor suggested that the charter business was being run in to the ground, when such a village of twelve hundred was invested with the dignity and title of city. It is farcical to do any such thing. We believe that Lancaster has made application for a city government, and probably Sharon, which is more entitled to the honor than Abnapee, will rap on the doors of the Legislature next, for a city charter. It should be a rule to prohibit all places from receiving a city charter that have not at least five thousand inhabitants, then the smaller cities of Wisconsin would be an honor to the State. Governor Smith in his veto message to the Abnapee bill, recommends a general law upon the subject of conferring the title of city on certain places. He wisely thinks there should be some specification as to the number of inhabitants a village should have before being organized into a city. The Senate seemed to be in perfect harmony with the Governor on this point, as every Senator voted to sustain the veto.

WASHINGTON CLERKSHIPS.

We have frequently mentioned the fact that Washington is over-run by young men and young women who seek clerkships in the governmental departments, and we have likewise printed many distressing accounts of the sufferings, heart-aches, disappointments and tragic deaths, among that class whose highest ambition is to do six hours of light work for the Government each day in the week. To-day there are hundreds who are walking the streets of Washington almost friendless, disheartened, oppressed by disappointment, without money or influence, who are waiting with well-nigh exhausted patience for an appointment. In these times when public economy is attracting considerable attention, when Congress is cutting down salaries, when the clerical force is being reduced in all departments, when times are hard and work is not plenty, there are hundreds who fail as a matter of course, to reach the goal of their ambition—which is the least created ambition of all—a Washington clerkship. The result of these blasted hopes, the effect of the sting of disappointment, are sadly significant. Within the past year there have been several suicides brought about by shattered hopes, by broken down spirits, by a defeat of expectation, and by the loss of friends among the unfortunate, who place their affection on a clerkship at Washington. Another occurred on Thursday evening. A man by the name of Dr. B. S. Tehorn, employed in the Interior Department, was discharged with a few others, because there was not work for him to do. Tehorn was bowed down by disappointment, and preferring death to life, he returned to his boarding house and ended his existence by sending a ball to his brain. He had been in the Department several years, took no thought of tomorrow, lived fast, conducted himself on the seeming supposition that a government clerkship would last always, and at his discharge he found himself destitute of friends, the owner of no money, and deeply involved.

There is no existence more uncertain and tempestuous than that of a clerk's at Washington. Their positions are easy—work light, hours short, and pay excellent for the amount and quality of the service rendered. They dress well, are ennobled by the brilliancy of Washington society, and become strongly attached to their positions. The dread of being removed, we have been told by many of them, is actually appalling. In this state of unrest, in this condition of fear of being displaced, they live month after month, and even year after year, until at last their time comes, and they quit Washington poor in pocket and intensely miserable in mind. There are very few clerks who save any money during these days of light work and good pay. They pay a large tribute to fashion, and to keep up appearances very many of them—young women as well as young men—become bankrupt in character as well as in purse. It is infinitely better to earn an honest living by honorable toil, with a contented mind and the blessing of independence, than to drag out the miserable existence of a Washington clerk.

There promises to be a warm contest for the Circuit Judgeship in the Third Judicial District in this State. Judge Pulling a Democrat, will run as his own successor, and Hon. A. Scott Sloan, ex-Attorney General has announced himself as an independent candidate. Sloan joined the Democratic party in 1872, and was elected Attorney General on the ticket with W. R. Taylor, and we presume considers himself a full fledged Democrat. Two Democrats pitted against each other will make lively times in the Third District.

Cremation has probably struck bottom in Pennsylvania. A bill has been introduced in the Legislature of that State prohibiting any more cremations. The persons violating the law shall be judged guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than $500 nor more than $1,000, or shall suffer imprisonment.

"Lincoln's Triumph in 1864." In the April Atlantic, is the last paper prepared by Hon. Gideon Welles. This fact lends it special interest, though the subject is one that cannot be uninteresting to any student of American politics during the last fifteen years.

They have a Greenback man in Milwaukee who is a candidate for mayor, and who promises to serve without a salary if he be elected. He may be a high-priced officer at his own figures.

This morning the Assembly killed the bill prohibiting religious instruction in the State Institutions. The vote stood 49 to 30. The Assembly honored itself in defeating such a measure.

The tax budget of $405,000 for current expenses for the ensuing fiscal year, went through the Legislature to-day.

THE EAST.

Hitches and Delays—The Russian Investment of Constantinople—The Feeling at St. Petersburg.

LONDON, March 16—5 a. m.—England's intention of reinforcing her fleet at Gallipoli has caused the movement of Russian troops nearer to Constantinople and the forts on the Bosphorus. This fact, taken in connection with Russia's opposition to the admission of Greece to the Congress, occasions much bitter feeling here, and there are indications that a demand will be made by England for the withdrawal of the Russian troops from their present position commanding Constantinople to the lines of Bayuk Tchekmedje, which will then be occupied by Turkish troops. If such a demand should be made as a necessary preliminary to a meeting of the Congress, it is probable that Russia would be forced to sacrifice the Congress. It is of course possible that some satisfactory compromise will be reached, but present tendencies are that the Congress will hardly accomplish much towards securing a lasting peace.

PEPPER, March 16—A special from St. Petersburg says: "The official world here again entertain grave apprehensions of serious complications. Men who have considerable influence in causing or averting events when they profess to foresee, say it is by no means certain that the congress will meet, and if it does meet is not likely to succeed, in consequence of Austrian and English jealousy of Russian success."

THE GALLOWS.

Adventures and Execution of Augustus Johnson—The First White Man Hung in Georgia for Killing a Negro.

ROME, Ga., March 15.—To-day, for the first time in the history of Georgia, a white man was hung for the murder of a negro. Augustus Johnson having been executed for the murder of Daniel Alford. In many respects Johnson was the most remarkable criminal that ever suffered on the gallows. Never in any man was the homicidal mania more intensely developed. He openly confessed to having killed eight persons, and his lawyers and relatives, admitting the truth of the charges against him, made the sole defense upon the plea that he was insane upon the subject of killing, and was not responsible for his acts.

Johnson held his nerve to the last. He spent last evening carousing and joking with a crowd, having driven his weeping wife from the cell. When the crowd left for supper he told them to come back and bring whisky and have a heap of fun all night. He slept well but not easily. The jail was heavily guarded. A priest spent this morning praying with him. He demanded morphine before he would leave the cell, and smoked a cigar on the way to the scaffold. A last request was for whisky, and the priest gave him holy water. He tasted it, cursed the priest and threw him off the scaffold. He said he thought the holy water was gin. He examined the coffin critically, threw the noise with his own hands, and died with a cross in his hand. A street preacher tried to talk, but the priest protested and the evangelist left. Johnson complained that the drop of five feet would break his neck, and demanded more rope. He asked the doctor if it would dislocate, and then satisfied, made a speech. He confessed to four murders, and closed asking if some would count the crowd for him. He asked that the black cap be left off. He asked the Sheriff, "Will you hang me?" The Sheriff answered, "Yes." "All right," said Johnson, and the drop fell. He died in seven minutes, strangled. Thus ended the career of a human monster.

OBITUARY.

J. Edwards Leonard—His Sudden Death at Havana.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The debate on the Dean-Field case was interrupted by the Speaker to announce the death at Havana, Cuba, this morning of J. E. Leonard, Representative from Louisiana, and in respect to his memory the House immediately adjourned. Judge Leonard started some three weeks since for Cuba, ostensibly as a confidential agent of the Government to ascertain whether a trade in negroes was secretly conducted between the United States and Cuba. The real purpose of Judge Leonard's visit was to marry a Cuban lady, to whom he had long been affianced. Judge Leonard was one of the youngest and ablest members of the House. His death will be a severe blow to the Republicans in Louisiana.

MURDER.

A Most Shocking and Fiendish Outrage and Murder at Tomah.

TOMAH, March 15.—A most shocking murder was committed here Wednesday night. Mrs. John Ryan, the wife of a man known as "Slippery Jack," was found dead on the steps of their house early Thursday morning. They are very poor people. Mrs. Ryan was drunk all day Wednesday, and about eight o'clock that night was at the house of one McGarvey. She was taken into the cellar and there ravished by a boy by the name of O'Riley, who, with a man known as "Big Frank," cigar maker, were seen later carrying and dragging her body towards her house. A pool of blood was found near the house, and blood spatters were on the fence and barn near the house. Big Frank is in custody. O'Riley and McGarvey have fled the country. The authorities are investigating the matter.

POLK.

The Doorkeeper's Doom—Polk will have Notice to Quit.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Carter Harrison's Civil-Service Committee to-day voted to dismiss Polk, the Democratic Doorkeeper. The vote stood 7 to 3. Harrison himself was in favor of voting to abolish the office as well as the Doorkeeper, but was overruled by the Committee. The report of the Committee will contain some very damaging disclosures as to the methods of conducting the Doorkeeper's department. Under this reform Congress Carter Harrison certainly deserves credit for having taken the initiative step in a movement to expose the abuses in his own party.

ACCIDENT.

ELKHORN, March 15.—Julius Peglean, a young German, was accidentally shot to-day, while hunting. He received a very severe wound in the hip. The cause was the catching of the trigger in a bush while he was drawing his gun towards him.

The amount of State tax received by the treasurer since last December, is $610,825, and the amount still due from counties is $31,320.

Meaning of the Term Porte.

The term "Porte," which is used to denote the administrative government of the Ottoman Empire, and includes the Sultan, the Grand Vizier, and the great Council of State, had its origin in this way. In the famous insinuation established by the famous warrior Sultan, Mohamed II, the Turkish body politic was described by the metaphor of a state tent, whose domes rested upon four pillars. The Viziers formed the first pillar, the Judges the second, the Treasurers the third, and the Secretaries the fourth. The chief seat of government was figuratively named the "City Gate of the Royal Tent," in allusion to the practice of earlier times, when the Ottoman rulers sat at the tent door to administer justice. The Italian translation of this name was "Le Porte Sublimi." This phrase was modified in English to the "Sublime Porte," and finally the adjective has been dropped, leaving it simply "The Porte."

LEGISLATURE.

The Senate Concurs in a Resolution Cutting off Certain Printing Claims.

Report from the State Treasurer Relating to the Tax Collections.

The Assembly Concur in the Senate Tax Budget.

MADISON.

Special dispatch to the Janesville Gazette
MADISON, March 16.

SENATE.

The joint resolution cutting off all further printing claims from E. A. Calkins was concurred in. The State Treasurer reported, in answer to a resolution, a detailed statement showing the State tax paid by counties since December, 1877, and the amount due. The receipts have been $610,825, and the amount due $31,320.

ASSEMBLY.

The tax budget of four hundred and five thousand dollars for current expenses for the ensuing fiscal year was concurred in. A bill was killed prohibiting religious instruction in the State institutions—49 to 30.

The bill was passed for the printing of two hundred copies of the State Constitution for use in common schools.

The bill was killed to protect depositors with National banks and private bankers.

Both Houses adjourned till Monday night.

Among the Dead Failures

Of the past, how many bogus nostrums may be numbered! Beginning their careers with a tremendous flourish of trumpets, blazoned for a time in the public prints and on flaming posters, so, too soon, were they relegated to the limbo of things lost on earth. But Hottel's Stomach Bitters is a living and thriving remedy. It goes on curing and to cure. Neither underhand nor open competition affect it. On the contrary, contrast with inferior rival preparations only increases its popularity. It has been repeatedly imitated, but without success. Counterfeits of it have been surreptitiously introduced, but have fallen flat. Everywhere it entrenches itself in the confidence of the people; and well it may, for it is a thoroughly reliable invigorant of the feeble, banishes dyspepsia and constipation, braces the nerves, cures rheumatic ailments and kidney complaints, and eradicates and prevents intermittent and remittent fevers.

may contain weed seed. Excepting quick, there are no weeds that need excite alarm, unless they are in some crop where you cannot get at them with cultivator and hoe. The millions of weeds which spring up among corn and potatoes and in gardens are dangerous only when neglected. They are not an advantage, as they necessitate more use of the cultivator and hoe than the soil would otherwise get, but none too much for the good of the crop.

How Shall I Keep My Hogs in Flesh?

In answer to the above question the editor of the Western Rural says:

Rye makes excellent pasture or early feed for hogs, but its growth is so rapid that it soon gets tough and beyond that for these animals, but to allow them access to the tame grasses later in the season, will carry them nicely until corn is ripe enough to feed. A pasture containing a mixture of grasses makes the best pasture.

When the preference of timothy and blue grass should have a place. When one variety is at its best, the other may be out of season. If hogs are supplied well in this respect and have access to what salt, pure water and shade they need, they can be put in no better condition for recovery than the owner.

One kind of grass or plant contains properties in different proportions from another, so with the grains. Herein manifests itself the necessity of a variety of foods, that the waste of this animal nature may be applied in the development and growth of our domestic animals. Our correspondent with many of our stock breeders look too much to the fat forming qualities of our domestic animals, rather than to the vital and constitutional characteristics which insure a normal and healthy development of young animals. While young hogs are losing flesh they are not necessarily losing in weight, and should be increasing in muscular vigor, and assuming a condition more profitable than one which may seem at the time more satisfactory.

When you encourage muscular growth you encourage the machine which is to convert the raw material into pork, and increase powers of assimilation. Swine fed upon food so largely carbonaceous as corn, contracts the digestive organs and produces coarseness, and farmers generally understand that hogs can be fed upon corn alone but few months at a time with profit.

In some quarters the chufa is well spoken of as food for hogs. We are not aware that it has been tried except to a very limited extent in the Northwest, and would advocate planting it except in a small way as an experiment.

A Sensible Hired Man.

A "Hired Hand" writes the following good sense to the Bloomington Leader.

We commend the reading of it to every man who works for another.

The supply of farm-laborers is greater than the demand. Wages are very low, but they are as high as can be paid at the price the farmer gets for his grain and hogs, the products of the farm. Another thing is, it is the inherent right of every man who has help to hire, to hire it as cheap as he can. Another thing is, that you often see men in their time away, and if any one in their confidence says anything about it, they will reply, "O, well, I can't afford to kill myself for $15 a month." Now, this is wrong, a man is just as much worth to do a month's work for $10 as he is for $50, if that is the current wages, and he agrees to work for it; he is not to do what he considers a day's work in proportion to his wages, but an honest day's work. Last summer I saw a man scoping corn in a car; he had about so much work to do as I was, but he was keeping it away from a steam sheller. He let it choke several times; when he was asked if he could not keep the corn out of the way of the sheller, he replied that he could, but swore he would not for a dollar a day. The consequence was that that jobman would, and the man lost his job.

RURAL JR.

The Enticement of Sheep-Raising.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin tells the following story of a conservative insurance president of that city, "W. H. Smith, an active and well educated youth, finding mercantile life here rather distasteful, and the chances for young men not numerous, took Horace Greeley's advice, went west, and entered upon sheep raising. The president was much disappointed at the course of his ambition, but, springing, he had mutual friends brought back good accounts of the business, and of the young man's success, that the worthy president finally informed his secretary to look into the subject, "a man of years and experience, sir, whose head is not likely to be turned." The merchant being interested in the matter, after a sufficient lapse of time asked his friend what was the result of his secretary's mission. "Well, to tell you the truth, Mr. G., said the president frankly, I suppose this is rather a sheepish matter, but I have got a letter from my secretary, and he says he shall not return, as he is going into the business himself."

The penetrating winds incident to this season of the year are very peculiar for the lungs. The neglect of a hard cough, generally leads to a weakness of the lungs, which not infrequently results in Consumption.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP will at once relieve and loosen a tight cough and is such an agreeable remedy that children will take it without being coaxed. A cold on the lungs, if consumption is already developed, may be easily mastered by the use of the Pulmonic Syrup, together with Schenck's Mandrake Pills to clear the system of the accumulated mucus.

In more serious cases, where the disease has become deeply seated, and the patient suffers from loss of appetite, weakness and emaciation Schenck's Sea-Wagon Tonic should be used in connection with the above mentioned remedies, to stimulate the appetite and bring the digestive powers into healthy action, thereby sustaining the strength of the patient and enabling him to resist the progress of the disease until the PULMONIC SYRUP may perform its healing and cleansing work.

The use of these standard remedies according to the directions which accompany them, cannot fail to produce most satisfactory results. A letter addressed to Dr. Schenck, cor. Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, asking advice, will promptly receive the Doctor's personal attention, free of charge.

Schenck's Medicines are for sale by all Druggists.—Boston Feb. 21st, 1877.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SWORN EVIDENCE.

The following cure is probably the most remarkable ever effected by any medical preparation for the treatment of Catarrh:

Gentlemen:—I hereby certify that I have had Catarrh for ten years, and for the last six years have been a terrible sufferer. I was rendered partially deaf, had burning in the head, pains across the temples, dizzy spells, would vomit, and had constant and ulcerated tonsils, hard and constant cough, severe pain across the chest, and every indication of consumption. My head ached all the time. The matter accumulated so rapidly in my head and throat that I could not keep them free. Eventually at night I would spring out of bed, it seemed to me, at the point of suffocation. I would then have recourse to every means in my power to dislodge the mucus from my throat and head before being able to sleep again. For a period of six years my tonsils were so enlarged and so much inflamed that I could with difficulty swallow. I finally consulted an eminent surgeon in regard to an operation on them, but at his request postponed it. The constant inflammation and ulceration in my throat caused by the mucus which accumulated in my head and throat had so irritated and inflamed my lungs that I coughed incessantly. My chest was sore, and my breathing began to show the effects of the disease. So that I lost flesh, grew pale, and showed every symptom of an early end by consumption. When matters had reached this stage, or at least I thought so, I began to use Dr. J. C. Smith's Catarrh Cure. After using the first bottle I began to improve rapidly. My chest was no longer so sore, and I had not known it to be for years. It seemed gradually to be getting better. I stopped my cough in three days. By using it a second bottle I cured the inflammation and swelling of my tonsils, so that they no longer caused trouble. The burning across my chest disappeared. My hearing and hearing were completely restored, and every symptom of disease that had reduced me to the verge of the grave disappeared by the use of Dr. J. C. Smith's Catarrh Cure. I am now a healthy man, and I have been this explicit because, as a druggist, I have seen a great many cases of Catarrh, and hope to convince many that this is a great remedy.

I am familiar with the treatment of Catarrh as practiced by the best physicians, and have consulted the most eminent about my case. I have used every kind of remedy and apparatus that have appeared during a period of six years, and have not had any permanent benefit. I have seen a great many cases of Catarrh, and hope to convince many that this is a great remedy.

GRANDMOTHER'S LESSON.

BY MARGARET V. SNODGRASS.

The quelling-bee was over. The folks had all gone home. And grandmother was sitting by the fire alone.

"I have been thinking, my children," she said, with a gentle sigh, "as the twilight was gathering round me, Of the times so long gone by, And up from the past came voices That long have been hushed and still, But that I still can hear to-day."

"There are gentle memories clinging, As vines to the shattered oak. That are ever green and tender, And each one has its own place. And when these come thronging over us, With a joy that is mixed with pain, From which we cannot refrain."

"And in looking backwards, children, From the point where I stand to view, I see that my life has been chequered With shades of many a hue. The light and the dark together, The sober, the gay, and the bright, All blended, yet varying ever, As the quill you have seen to-night."

"We are each of us making patch work, All of us, old and young; And the pieces are all provided, And sent to us by one. And when they come to be folded, And we don't know how to turn, We must just give up our puzzle, And look to Heaven and learn."

"Sometimes our work seems useless, And, with sighs of discontent, We wish that something greater For our life-work had been sent. But there's One who watches our labor, With earnest, tender care, And when we try to please Him, He makes it wonderful fair."

"He will examine our stitches, When the hour of trial shall come, And He will look to the motive And help us to take up the same. And He judges us very kindly, And allows for the falling tear. The tears that come from feeling, How to thread our needles clear."

"You will see that all your pieces Were cut and prepared for you, The light and the dark together, With judgment every one of us. And the work that look'd the darkest, Now seems the brightest and best; That your eyes are no more weary, But have entered the heavenly rest."

"And then, upon seeing the Master, And gazing into His face, You'll forget all about your own work, And His glorious work shall be done. And with praise to Him forever, Your heart will overflow, Till earth's sorrows are forgotten, And His trials lie below."

"The English sparrow has been unjustly condemned as a bad bird by the Natural Ornithological Society of Cambridge, Mass."

A gentleman in Casswell Co., N. C., received last year $800 for one acre of tobacco cultivated by himself without hired assistance.

John Utz, of Carroll Co., Me., is credited with raising ninety-nine bushels of sweet potatoes within the space slightly exceeding a quarter acre.

It is reported that the tobacco crop in New Hampshire averages 15,000 pounds to the acre, being exceeded only by Massachusetts, which raises 1,640 pounds.

Not less than from one-third to four-fifths of the quantity of carbon contained in the crops we reap, from land of average fertility, is really obtained from the air.

More than five million cans of corn are now packed in Maine annually and sold in every part of the world, yielding a business to the State of about $1,150,000, and giving a profitable employment to from eight to ten thousand people during the packing season.

The Massachusetts board of agriculture complains that the rural horse-trout at county fairs lowers the tone of the exhibition, and fills New England with a class of horses that are of little practical benefit. The cattle show managers, however, say that trotting is the only paying feature.

James H. Booker, a Georgia farmer, is mentioned by the papers of that State as having raised, last year, the largest crops produced by any one man since the war. He raised sixty bales of cotton, 1,200 bushels of corn, 500 of potatoes, 1,000 each of oats and wheat, and besides fattened twenty-five hogs.

Gen. Le Duc says that his idea of promoting the cultivation of native tea has been so well received that he received at least six hundred letters a day making inquiries in regard to it, and asking for tea plants. The commissioner already has one hundred thousand tea plants started, and the demand for them will, he thinks, far exceed the supply.

Pears and beans, corresponding more with the elements of fat than the various grains, are better adapted to the production of wool than either wheat, corn, rye, barley, oats or buckwheat. These latter, together with the ruta-baga turnip, being peculiarly adapted to the production of fat, should be used mostly for the feed of sheep when undergoing the process of fattening.

It is computed that in the year 1875 there were 10,000,000 cows kept for dairy purposes in this country, which, at $45 per head, were worth $450,000,000. The land needed for their support represents $300,000,000 more, and the capital invested in teams, dairy implements, etc., $100,000,000, making a grand total of $1,450,000,000 invested in this single industry.

To drain a depression in a field where a clayey or hard pan subsoil prevents the sinking of rain water and the laying of the land is unfavorable for ordinary methods of drainage, first dig a hole as if for a well, through the impervious stratum at the bottom, fill it up to the brim with refuse stones, remove the excavated earth so as to allow the surface water free access to the pit, and standing water will never infiltrate the grass or grain crop in that part of the field.

The poultry house should be made water-tight and wind-proof. The tree, which has served as a roosting place during the summer months, should be vacated and remain tenantless till cold weather is over. Because fowls have a thick covering of feathers it does not follow that they do not feel the cold. Notice them some frosty morning how they love the sunshine and cluster in the sunny corners out of the wind. This should teach a lesson, and we should not let a day pass until our feathered pets are made comfortable.

The great secrets of making good butter are cleanliness and attention. Let cleanliness be applied first to the cow barn, see that it is kept clean, so that no foul odors shall be absorbed by the new milk; that the animals be kept healthy, so as to yield pure, wholesome milk; see to the udder, that no scabs or flits be rubbed off into the pail while milking; to the hands, that they shall not defile the milk; to the spring house or milk room, that the cream may be kept pure, to the milk pails, pans, skimmer, cream pot and churn, so that no cheese, lard or foul odors be communicated to the cream, and finally, apply scrupulous cleanliness to the butter worker and market tubs.

Wisconsin Butter.

At the last session of the Wisconsin Dairywomen's Association, Mr. Asa Foster, of Elkhoru, stated that a party in north Vermont, his old home, had quite recently written him that he had thrown up his sponge to Wisconsin butter-makers, for Boston was paying two cents per pound more for fresh Western creamery butter

SATURDAY, MARCH 16, 1878.

CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFINGS.

No dust yet.
St. Patrick's day to-morrow.
That snow promised by Old Indications has not arrived.

Only one woman in jail, though there are some perhaps who ought to be there.
The replay suit of Decker vs. Graham has been withdrawn from the courts and settled some other way.

Dr. George Chittenden Jr., has arrived home from Chicago, where he has been busy in the County Hospital.

Piano recital at Miss Battle's music room Monday evening, March 18th, at half-past seven. All are invited.

One solitary tramp strolled inside the limits last night, was tied and lodged, and allowed to leave again this morning.

Nothing specially new transpired at last night's meeting of the Temple of Honor, routine business occupying the session.

Ed. Whitten is home again from a trip at Illinois, where he has been selling the Rhind's safety lamp. He reports trade as dull.

Monday next, at 8 p. m., Mrs. Abby Sage Richardson will deliver the first of the three lectures at All Souls Church, on Shakespeare.

Some of the hanging signs are said to need bracing up, before the spring gales hurt them down on the heads of some of the unsuspecting passers-by.

Mrs. Rev. Henry Faville, of Delavan, and Miss Eva Farlan, one of Delavan's teachers, are expected to arrive in the city to-day to visit friends.

The money orders issued during the past week numbered 121 amounting to $1,515.86 and number paid, 109, amounting to $1,718.29, making a total cash handled, $3,234.15.

The school teachers met this morning and were duly quizzed on Roman history and the educational system of Wisconsin. This is wearing the old and the new pretty thoroughly.

To-morrow morning a special train will leave the depot at 8:30 o'clock for Whitewater, returning in the evening, to accommodate the Total Abstinence and Benevolent Society, which joins in the observance of St. Patrick's day at Whitewater.

The prisoner's gang was not out at work yesterday nor to-day owing to the absence of the foreman, employed to keep the men at work. Three of the boys were given a chance to saw wood in the jail yard to-day, for a short time, but aside from that, a general holiday time has been indulged in since Thursday night.

The Round Table next Wednesday night has for its topic "Literary Dictation." The following will take part: Rev. J. W. Sanderson, Imagery of Form and Color; Mr. B. F. Dunn, Imagery of Style; Prof. J. P. Haire, Imagery of Quality; Rev. T. P. Sawin, Imagery of Quantity; Prof. J. S. Van Cleave, Imagery of Rhythm, Imagery.

S. Clark Burroughs, Jr., and Capt. Miles went out into the town of Center last night, to hold a temperance meeting. The rain interfered somewhat with the attendance but there is every prospect that a Temple will soon be established there with a flattering send-off. A number of the best residents there are interested in the movement, and will doubtless push it forward to success.

Burr Robbins and his men seem to be greatly pleased with the Temple of Honor ritual, and propose entering enthusiastically into its workings. A large room at Spring Brook has been set apart for their use, and is being carpeted and furnished, for the meetings while they remain in Janesville. The new Temple will be properly dedicated in accordance with the ritualistic form as soon as completed.

The Congregational church now has 321 actual members, of which 29 are out of the city at present, and the rest are actual residents of the city and attendants upon the church services. When Rev. Mr. Sawin came here there were 575 upon the roll, but some of those had been dead for years, others were dead spiritually, and still others had moved to parts unknown. These names which have been kept on the books for years have been dropped, so that the roll now embraces only bona fide members. The society has been growing in members and strength under the present pastorate.

The Edwin Clifford dramatic company will appear at the opera house next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, with Miss Amelia Watts as the leading lady. Tuesday evening Camille will be played on the boards, and Wednesday evening, Iago, the Barbarian, or the Greek Girl's Love, a thrilling play. Miss Watts is a cultivated lady and a talented artist, and the company supporting her has been reorganized and selected with great care from the best theatres of New York, Cincinnati and Chicago, and consists of fourteen ladies and gentlemen of acknowledged dramatic merit. Miss Clara A. Judd, of this city, will appear in both plays, taking the character of Nichette, the first night, and Theana, the second night.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 43 degrees above, and at two o'clock at 48 degrees above. Cloudy. One year ago to-day at corresponding hours the thermometer stood at 21 degrees and 24 degrees above, and a heavy snow was falling.

The indications to-day are, falling, followed by rising barometer, warm southerly winds, veering to colder, brisk and high northerly, partly cloudy weather, and rain showers, partly turning into snow in the northern portion.

SAFETY LAMP FACTORY.
This new manufacturing enterprise is now in full working order, and orders for lamps are coming in fast enough to cause great hopes for the successful future of the enterprise. This invention of a complete safety lamp is one which meets a great want. The newspapers are full of accounts of fearful accidents resulting from lamps tipping over and breaking, and scattering burning fluid over everything. A small outlay will effectually prevent any such occurrences, and the new lamp will doubtless take the place of the ordinary style. The flame is self-extinguished the moment any accident happens the lamp, so that no serious results can take place by any handling, however careless. The lamps are being taken hold of by the regular trade, and are meeting with a rapid sale. Those who desire to examine this new invention can do so by calling upon the following firms who have them for sale: On the west side—John Wingate, John Davies, M. M. Conant & Co., C. Dutton, A. Rider and J. R. Nash; the east side, W. G. Wheelock, C. B. Conrad, G. W. Hawes, J. C. Fredendall, L. C. Brownell and J. H. Ball. No lamps can be bought at retail at the factory.

FIREMEN'S CAUCUS.

Delegates of the several Fire Companies will meet at west side engine house to-night at half past seven o'clock to put in nomination candidates for Chief and Assistant Engineers. By order of the Committee.

CAMILLA URSD COMING.

Harry St. Ormand, agent of the Camilla Ursd grand concert company, has written a letter to the Gazette, stating that he is now arranging towns and dates for the company in this State, and contemplates visiting Janesville about the middle of April. This announcement will greatly delight the amusement and music lovers of the city with whom this company is a great favorite. Their last appearance in Janesville was enthusiastically appreciated, and there are even more who will this time improve the opportunity to hear the choice music thus afforded.

TO THE LADIES.

Mr. Wm. H. Hanchett, of the firm of Hanchett & DeLund, Milwaukee, who manufacture ladies' and misses' shoes to order, will be at the Myers house on Tuesday next, where he will be prepared to take the measures for all ladies who desire to have their shoes made to fit their feet. This firm have a State reputation, and can make shoes to fit with ease all those who are troubled with tender feet. They not only make a shoe that fits the foot handsomely but also one which gives ease and comfort, and at prices that give satisfaction. Ladies who are not in want of shoes at this time can have their measure taken and order when they need. This firm have made shoes for quite a number of our city ladies and all are more than pleased. Do not forget—at Myers house, Tuesday, March 19th.

APPLETON'S JOURNAL.

The April number of this popular monthly contains some very interesting reading matter, including another paper by Wm. H. Rideing on "The American at Work," it being an account of the cheese makers art; a poem by Sallie A. Brock; "About the Ballet," by J. Brander Matthews; a continuation of Mrs. Annie Edwards' novel; an abstract and review of Sullivan's "New Ireland" by Charles H. Woodman; a poem by Adeline D. T. Whitney; "The Wonderful Family," by John Estlin Cooke; a poem by Francis Rye; a continuation of "Celia's Arbor," a short story, complete, by Forrest Stone; "John Keats and Fanny Browne," by R. H. Stoddard; "A visit to the London Cookery-School," by Olive Logan; a poem by David Ker, together with a large amount of miscellaneous reading matter. The present number shows that the publishers are determined to cause a steady improvement in this already meritorious monthly.

SOCIAL CONGREGATIONALISTS.

There was a very pleasant reunion of the Congregational church and society at the residence of Mr. W. G. Wheelock last evening. Mrs. Jones played an organ overture, and Mrs. Bell read a selection. A decidedly novel tableau was then presented being a basket so arranged as to represent a mammoth pie. Charlie Wingate, with carving knife and fork cut the crust and out popped three young misses, the eldest being only about five years old. These were the Misses Jones, Best and Wingate, a charming trio, who sang very prettily "Four and twenty blackbirds baked in a pie." Mr. Sam Lightbody then read a selection, and music followed by a quartet consisting of Misses Kittie Farnsworth, Nettie Campbell, and Messrs. Wingate and Crawford. Miss Jones, a little 3-year-old, sang a cunning song, and Rev. Mr. Sawin read "The Fight of the Rev.," from the last Scribner's. This completed the programme proper, though other music and pastimes were informally indulged in. In spite of the dampening weather there were about seventy-five in attendance, and a most pleasant occasion resulted from the gathering.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

This beautiful and moral drama will be presented at Myers Opera House on Saturday evening, March 23d, by the talented young artist, Lottie, and her troupe. Lottie will appear in her original role of Topsy. To judge from the very many flattering notices they have received from wherever they have appeared, they must have been meeting with great success. We copy the following as only one of the many handed to us:

A large audience gathered together last evening to welcome Miss Lottie at Powers Opera House, in one of her best impersonations, namely, Topsy, in the immortal drama of Uncle Tom's Cabin. As soon as little Lottie appeared in her introduction to Aunt Ophelia, the whole house was so taken up with her graceful and winning manner, and so little time before the house could be quieted sufficiently to permit of her being heard. She has made a thoroughly matured study of the character of Topsy, and introduced many new points that serve to strengthen the impersonation. She had a most excellent support, particularly that of Mr. Henderson, who plays the part of Mr. Hudson as "Uncle Tom," and Yankee Weaver as "Gumption Cate." The rest of the cast was in excellent hands.—Grand Rapids Times.

ALMOST A REBEL.

Gen. B. Randall, living on Ruger avenue, abhors tramps, and is ever on the watch lest they commit some depredations on his premises, which are some ways from the central portion of the city. The other evening one of his brothers-in-law named Fairchild, from Jefferson, O., and another male relative, whom he had not seen for many years, came unexpectedly to the city on the night train, to make the General and his family a visit. They met the sons down town and between them put up a neat little job on Mr. Randall. The visitors went up to the house, arriving there at a late hour of the evening, rang the bell, and told Mr. Randall that they were strangers in the city and begged the privilege of sleeping in the barn. He refused peremptorily and advised them to go down town, of course, taking them to be members of the tramp family, the darkness preventing him from noticing their features, as he had not seen them since they were boys. Mr. Randall, searched his pockets and secured eleven cents, all the loose change he happened to have, and giving that to the beggars, received a "God bless you" in return. The two went their way, met the young men, who were waiting for them in the street, and were after a while piloted around to the back door, and slipped into the house, and into the spare room without Mr. Randall's knowledge or consent. The old gentleman was greatly alarmed, and when he found that his sons had retired, made them get out their lanterns, hunt about the barn and yard, search the premises thoroughly for the tramps, who he was sure were going to rob the house, his fears being played upon by the sons, who said that as they came home they saw two men standing in the road. He was sure they were villainous looking and meant mischief. The search revealed nothing, and the family retired. The next morning Mr. Randall, after doing some chores, came in and was greatly surprised to see the two tramps of the previous night, nicely dressed, and seated at the breakfast table with the family. His surprise was great, and mystery seemed so added to mystery, that an explanation became a necessity. He then learned that he had been bestowing his loose pennies upon his wife's relatives, and they were made welcome guests.
